Dear Brian

As requested, my observations on nearly 12 months' experience with Endox.

I purchased this unit from you originally, not to cut corners, but to give me more confidence in my root treatment procedures. I am not an endodontic specialist, but I am very interested in root treatment. Therefore any system that is proven to remove bacteria from the root environment has to be endorsed.

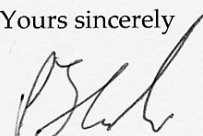

I have been very pleased with the results obtained, but it was only when I attended the lecture given by Signor Sacchi, that I understood the underlying science and so felt totally comfortable with the use of Endox.

You can use hypochlorite and all the other medicaments, but you are not entirely sure that the root system is clean, particularly lateral canals, but with Endox you are.

After some 100 plus treatments, I find that I get far fewer phone calls complaining of post op., pain.

I think I do less instrumentation now, which is a more conservative approach, leaving more tooth structure.

Overall Endox is a welcome advance to root canal treatment and I am happy to endorse its use.

Yours sincerely

Peter Laskowski
